Can you think of any orange plant foods that aren’t on this page?

- Chilli peppers are members of the capsicum family
- Orange rind can be used in dishes for extra flavour
- Turmeric adds flavour and colour to curries and stews
- Marvellous mango is a tropical fruit which grows on big, leafy trees
- This grapefruit is pink and juicy on the inside
- Make raw dipping sticks out of these orange peppers
- Butternut squash has a golden brown skin that we don’t eat
- The part of the sweet potato we eat is called a tuber and it grows underground
- Carrots are related to parsley
- Sharon fruit is another name for the sweet fruit, kaki persimmon
- Peaches feel fuzzy on the outside!
- The physalis is a fruit from the nightshade family
- Satsumas usually have a loose skin, which is easy to peel
- You can eat these papaya seeds. They taste spicy!
- This grapefruit is pink and juicy on the inside
- Pumpkins grow on a vine above the ground